

Great blue herons wade in marsh wetlands to find food.

Many frogs live in wetlands their whole life cycle – from egg, to tadpole to frog.

Spotted turtles are a state endangered species in Illinois that live in shallow wetlands.